

For kids like Lyla.

Lyla and her family know all too well how important it is to have a children's hospital nearby. This incredible 12-year-old started to not feel well towards the end of 2018. She and her family were new to Maine, having moved to the area from Florida. Despite some scary and unnerving symptoms, doctors initially thought Lyla was experiencing nerves from the move and starting a new school. But by the beginning of 2019, it was clear something much more serious was going on.

After continuous trips to the bathroom and not being able to keep down any food or water, Lyla was admitted to Northern Light Eastern Maine Medical Center, one of two Children's Miracle Network Hospitals in Maine. Her family's hope was she'd be admitted, get fixed, and head home. But that stay turned into several weeks and a life-changing diagnosis – severe inflammatory bowel disease and ulcerative colitis.

If a colonoscopy is scary for an adult, imagine being a child. Lyla has now had plenty of those, and you can add blood transfusions, a PICC line, a colectomy, an ostomy, and a J-pouch as terms she's had to become familiar with. Through it all, her smile has shined brightly, and she looks back at these tough times proudly. She knows she's overcome so much.

Today, Lyla is doing well. She still has inflammation and is being carefully monitored, but she is back to being a typical 12-year-old. She attends middle school in Bangor, where she is in the chorus and art club. She also is on the Bangor YMCA swim team, plays the piano, and sings in her free time.

On behalf of our patients and their families, and our doctors and nurses, thank you for making miracles happen for local kids by supporting the annual Log A Load for Kids Northern Maine Golf Tournament. Your support means kids like Lyla can stay close to home and receive the specialized care needed. Thank you!
